St. George:

We are just about completed with our rework program on the 24" f/6 Pacific Optical lenses. As you know, we received approximately 60 of these lenses at the start of the job. We now have approximately 25 to 30 lenses which have never been touched -- except for the October flood. What disposition do you wish us to make of these lenses? We have not touched them since the damage done to them by the flood. Consequently, all of them are dirty, grimy, some are scratched and others have had their coated surfaces affected. Do you wish us to return these through the channels which we received them (i.e., through WAS), or do you have some other method you wish us to use.

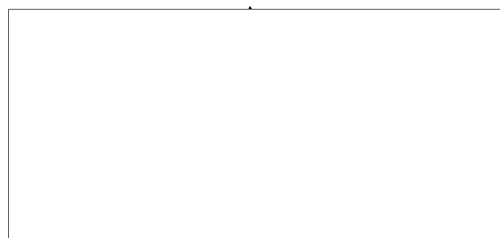

We would like to get these off our hands since they are taking up storage space we could use. I do not think we would want to take up a contract from you for cleaning up these lenses; perhaps this is something that might be accomplished through the standard channels with Pacific Optical.
